

TEXAS MAGNATES LOOKING AHEAD

Meeting Called to Make Plans for Early Business.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 1.—It looks like the worst is over. At least that's the way it looks to the magnates of the Texas league and they are getting ready for repairing the baseball wreckage caused by the war storm. A meeting of the Texas league club owners was called last week to be held at Waco on Sunday, Nov. 3, for the purpose of discussing the baseball situation in general and Texas league affairs in particular, and for the purpose of formulating plans for the future, whatever it may have in store.

A temporary organization will be formed to maintain the league's status, delegates named to attend the Texas meeting of the minor leagues will be named. Reports from the various cities of the league indicate the magnates are optimistic about the future of the league. They seem sure that the big fund will be over by spring and that the league can resume operations with little delay.

It is with this in mind that the need of a league organization impresses itself on them. A full attendance at the Waco meeting is expected with action taken that will put the league in shape for future usefulness. There will have to be some patching up here because the game is resumed and the preliminary steps for this will be taken. A census of the territory will be taken to see how the clubs stand. At least four, possibly five, are in good shape and are going to go as soon as conditions warrant.

Walter Morris doubtless will be considered as presiding over the league. He is the only one who has been in the league since the war and he also will represent the league at the Waco meeting. Several club owners accompanying him and being on hand to give their advice on the various matters of the league. The organization of the Texas league is a matter of some importance. The chief concern of the Texas in this reorganization is that this circuit be given the rating and the rights that its population and patronage entitle it to.

The Texas club owners have always been noted for their generosity and they can be depended on to get under way as soon as Uncle Sam gives the word. The league suspended operations last summer because it thought it a patriotic thing to do and not because of any financial embarrassment and there is every reason to believe that the fans, who those who have gone abroad are eager for resumption as soon as possible. And down here, where we're confident of Uncle Sam's aid, the word to the Hun, that "possible" means pretty pronto.

MINOR SCRIBES TO ORGANIZE

Call Is Sent Out for Them to Gather at Peoria.

Efforts will be made at the convention of the minor leagues in Peoria this month to effect an organization of minor league sport writers, similar to that now existing in the major leagues and there is a hope that if the organization is perfected that it can co-operate with the Baseball Writers' Association, the present union of major league scribes, though the primary object is to benefit minor league writers in their own field.

F. B. Smith, of the Peoria Star, who is active in the invitation to the minor league sport writers, has sent out a number of invitations to sport writers in minor league circuits and believes there will be enough response to permit first steps to be taken at least. Never was the time more propitious for the minor league writers to organize, for them to assert themselves. The reorganization of professional baseball can not be effected unless the press get behind and boost the effort, and Smith thinks that "man behind" should meet with his fellow scribes and decide on some definite program of action.

Baseball writers in various minor leagues in the past have had their organizations, with much mutual benefit resulting, but this is the first effort to form a general association of minor scribes.
